Asset management

Asset management comprises the management of the client's funds conducted on the basis of the contract signed by the investor and the management company. An investor transfers his or her powers to the management company, which chooses a professional and effective investment strategy based on the client's aims and financial capability.

The traders react to any fluctuations on the financial market by immediately correcting the investment strategy in order to achieve and maintain high profit levels for an investor.

Asset management for our clients

- The reliability of cooperation with a professional investment company.
- No restrictions concerning the sum of the initial investment.
- Guaranteed profit rate acquired at specified periods of time.
- All decisions concerning the management of the acquired profits are made by the investor himself.
- The management company works hard to increase the investor's income since the size of the brokerage received by it depends on the profit acquired by the client.

Does this investment method suit you?

Business development

The main reason for investing money into something is the formation of an additional source of passive income. If a client chooses the right way of investing money, he or she will be able to enjoy a certain degree of freedom in the development of his or her main business. Having a predetermined regular income, you will be able to expand the influence of your company at the market, invest the acquired profits into the development of new solutions and products, and define the prospective growth taking into consideration the peculiar features of your own stabilization fund.

Personal aims

By transferring a part of your funds to an asset management company, you will be able to figure out how you are going to use the acquired additional income for your own purposes. This sum used to be just a kind of stabilizer, but now you will be able to spend more money on recreation and unplanned purchases without increasing the size of the supply subtracted from your regular income.

Increasing the assets

By increasing the amount of funds transferred to an asset management company by means of acquired profits you will be increasing your own capital. At the same time the money doesn't just get accumulated – it keeps on working for you. Consequently, the larger is the invested sum, the more profit you get from it.

The advantages of transferring free funds into asset management

- ✓ The ability to build up your own investment business.
- ✓ Freedom in the process of designing more ambitious development strategies.
- ✓ Guaranteed stability and substantial amount of profits.
- ✓ Additional funds that can be used in the realization of one's personal aims.
- ✓ Capital growth and steady increase of the active income.

Our employees will help you choose the most convenient and well-paying investment option for you after picking up the appropriate investment strategy and investment portfolio.

Investment portfolios

While choosing the appropriate investment means one will always have to look for the happy medium between two indices: profitability and possible risks. These indices are in direct relation to each other - the bigger is the potential profit, the bigger is the potential risk. It has to be noted that the concept of risk is getting less and less relevant these days since within the past seven years of our operation at the financial market none of our clients have ever received profits lower than those agreed upon during the process of signing the contract. We offer solutions able to help each of our customers to choose the investment means that is the most profitable for him or her in particular.

What is an investment portfolio?

An investment portfolio is the combination of assets that you invest your money into. The process of building up an investment portfolio is based upon the process of choosing securities. The main reason for creating a portfolio is pretty simple – if done correctly, it will allow you to supply your set of securities with such investment features (profitability and risk) that cannot be achieved by purchasing only stocks or bonds, for instance. Combination is the only key to creating a good investment portfolio.

Peculiar features of different investment portfolios

All investment portfolios are built up in accordance with one of the following strategies:

- The strategy aimed at the aggressive capital growth stimulation with high level of risk. Potential annual profitability of this strategy can be estimated at about 35%. This strategy is based upon the utilization of tools with a high level of risk: shares, futures, and options.
- The strategy aimed at low-risk investment and intended for steady capital growth (about 22% annually). Stocks can serve as an example of low-risk investment tools.

By combining high- and low-risk approaches in different proportions, the experts of Private Fund Management develop investment portfolios based on the requirements set by different clients.

Private Fund Management investment portfolios

Fixed income

Risk: zero.

Liquidity: one week.

Recommended investment period: 6-12 months

Expected income: 20-22%.

“Fixed income” portfolio allows increasing assets slowly but without any risk.

A “fixed income” portfolio is appropriate for those investors who aim at getting profits higher than those brought by ordinary bank deposits but want to stick to the liquidity and the reliability of bank deposits. The assets in this case will be long-term corporate and municipal bonds turned into hard currency.

A “fixed income” investment portfolio comprises bonds that are kept until the moment of their purchase – that’s why there is no investment risks associated with this type of portfolio.

Bond portfolio

Risk: minimal.

Liquidity: one week.

Recommended investment period: 12-18 months.

Expected income: 22-25%.

Expected risk: 6%.

Bond portfolio is a happy medium between a good income level and relatively small investment risk.

A bond portfolio will allow you to get profits higher than those acquired by means of an average bank deposit. The assets in this case will be corporate, municipal, and state bonds turned into U.S. currency. The peculiar features of this kind of portfolio are: low risk level and high liquidity.

High profits acquired through the use of this portfolio result from the increase in price of the equities and the steady development of the company - a share in which is purchased by the investor.

Conservatively balanced portfolio

Risk: medium.

Liquidity: 1-2 weeks.

Recommended investment period: 12-18 months

Expected income: 25-30%.

Expected risk: 9%.

Conservatively balanced portfolio – high profits acquired with a relatively low risk level achieved through asset diversification.

A client who chooses to invest his money into a conservatively balanced portfolio gets higher profits than a person holding a bond portfolio. In this case the level of risk goes up just a little if compared to a bond portfolio.

A conservatively balanced portfolio includes the stocks of worldwide companies as well as various bonds. The ratio between these two types of securities is the following: 20% - stocks, 80% - bonds.

Actively balanced portfolio

Risk: medium.

Liquidity: 1-2 weeks.

Recommended investment period: 12-18 months.

Expected income: 30-35%.

Expected risk: 15%.

Actively balanced portfolio shows the highest levels of expected income but acceptably high levels of expected risk as well.

An actively balanced portfolio is based on the same principle with the conservatively balanced one. The assets that it offers are also stocks and bonds of worldwide companies. The only thing that makes it different from the previous portfolio is the ratio of stocks to bonds. This ratio for a well-balanced portfolio will vary from 50:50 to 75:25.

An actively balanced portfolio allows the client to gain profits as big as those acquired through investment into bonds but at the same time reducing the investment risks.

You can make up your mind about the choice of a certain portfolio with the help of the following table showing the income that you will be able to get through the usage of different investment products.

Investment insurance

We are fully aware of the fact that most investors are afraid of bankruptcy and shutdown of their asset management company. In order to protect the rights and legal interests of our investors, and to stimulate confidence in our company and attract new investments, we offer our clients to insure the full sum of their investments (including the interest) in an international insurance agency.

Which investments can be insured?

A client of our company can insure the money (no matter the sum or the currency) put into an investment account at Private Fund Management by any natural or legal person. The interest gets insured only if it has been added to the main body of the investment in accordance with the terms of the contract.

What should you know about the replacement of capital?

This is how the insurance system works: in case of Private Fund Management's shutdown or loss of investment license, all of its investors get fixed capital replacements. In accordance with the investment insurance law, the repaid sum should be equal to 100% of the invested one.

Replacement of invested capital is made in the currency, which the client was using to open his or her investment account. The investor may choose to get the replaced sum in cash or via wire transfer.

Conclusion

During the past few years, the staff of Private Fund Management has managed to reach the heights that numerous enterprises with much longer history are still dreaming of. They have established a successful company aiming at saving and increasing the clients' capital.
